

Judge Richard A. Jones

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff

v.

SCHUYLER PYATTE BARBEAU,

Defendant.

NO. CR15-391RAJ

MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER
REGARDING DISCOVERY MATERIALS

Noted: January 8, 2015

The United States moves pursuant to Rule 16(d)(1) for a protective order restricting the dissemination of discovery in this matter that references the informant or the names of any law enforcement officers.

On December 16, 2015, a grand jury returned an indictment charging Schuyler Barbeau with illegally possessing an unregistered short-barreled rifle. After the indictment was returned, ATF confirmed that the short-barreled rifle also operated as a fully-automatic machine gun.

As outlined at the detention hearing, Barbeau repeatedly made statements about killing law enforcement officers. As just a few examples:

- a. On November 4, 2015, Barbeau, referencing a friend's legal troubles, said during a recorded conversation: "Forget the court. Wait for them (referring to law enforcement) to come and we'll shoot them." He

1 further stated: "When they come, I want to be there, because I'm gonna
2 shoot'em."

3 b. During that same recording, Barbeau, speculating as to why he had not
4 yet been arrested, stated: "Is it worth losing two, three, four guys to try
5 to serve an arrest warrant? Is it worth having a bunch of our own guys
6 getting' killed, just to try to bring one guy in?"

7 c. On October 12, 2015, Barbeau posted on Facebook: "That guy that 8 killed 168, ya he's my hero. Hes the only person I know that didn't like 9 how the federal government is. and actually did something against 10 them." Barbeau was referring to Timothy McVeigh, who killed 168
11 people during the Oklahoma City bombing, nineteen of whom were 12 children at a day care facility.

13 After Barbeau was arrested, supporters of Barbeau threatened the confidential
14 source in this case on multiple occasions. Supporters also posted details about the source
15 on the internet, including the source's identity.

16 Supporters also have attempted to intimidate the agents working on this matter.
17 For example, a supporter posted on the internet what he thought was the home address of 18 one of the agents in this case, along with the name of the agent's spouse. A supporter
19 challenged another agent to "hand to hand combat." That same supporter, addressing the 20 "captors" of Barbeau, wrote: "1. You're gonna lose allot of sleep. 2. Or you're 21 voluntarily going to sleep permanently."

22 The discovery materials in this case contain numerous references to the source as 23 well as the identities of particular agents involved in the investigation. In light of the 24 circumstances outlined above, the government is concerned that the discovery materials
25 will be used by Barbeau's supporters as part of an attempt to further intimidate and harass
26 the source and the agents in this matter. Accordingly, the government proposes the 27 attached protective order which, to the extent the materials reference the source or any 28 particular agents: (1) grants Barbeau and his attorney access to all of the discovery materials; (2) restricts the dissemination of the materials outside the defense team;

1 and (3) requires that the materials remain in the possession of Barbeau's attorneys and
2 their staff, as well as any experts who are retained in this matter.

3 The Court has the authority to enter the proposed protective order. Rule 16(d)(1)
4 grants the Court broad discretion to issue protective orders to "deny, restrict, or defer
5 discovery or inspection" for good cause. Fed. R. Crim. Pr. 16(d). The Supreme Court
6 has explained that "the trial court can and should, where appropriate, place a defendant
7 and his counsel under enforceable orders against unwarranted disclosure of the materials
8 which they may be entitled to inspect." Alderman v. United States, 394 U.S. 165, 185
9 (1969). Protective orders are particularly appropriate where there are concerns about the 10 safety of witnesses. See 1966 Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rule of Criminal 11 Procedure 16.

12 In sum, the Court should enter the attached, proposed protective order.

13
14 DATED: December 30, 2015

15 Respectfully submitted,

16 ANNETTE L. HAYES
